

THE HUFFINGTON POST

JESSICA SILVERMAN GALLERY: 40 Galleries You Should Know About If You Love Paint

Written by Steven Zevitas

February 25, 2014

Jessica Silverman has, in a very short time, become one of the most talked-about young dealers in the world. She opened her gallery in 2008 after finishing an M.F.A. in Curatorial Studies at the California College of the Arts and quickly made a name for herself. Within a year of opening, she was already participating in significant art fairs such as NADA Miami and FIAC. Silverman has a knack for identifying new talent, including Hugh Scott-Douglas, who was recently taken on by LA powerhouse Blum & Poe, and Dashiell Manley, who will appear in the upcoming 2014 Whitney Biennial. She is also interested in overlooked mature artists such as Barbara Kasten, whose work is just starting to be recognized as seminal to a younger generation of photographers.

NAP ARTISTS: Luke Butler, Desiree Holman, Conrad Ruiz

OTHER NOTABLE ARTISTS: Barbara Kasten, Dashiell Manley, Hugh Scott-Douglas

Dashiell Manley, Courtesy of Jessica Silverman Gallery, San Francisco