The sixth Athens Biennale, which is titled "ANTI," has announced this year's participating artists. The event runs from October 26 to December 9 at various venues around the Greek capital, including the TTT building, the Esperia Palace, and the Benakeios Library.

According to a release, the 2018 biennial "dissects the way we polarize, fight and antagonize in post-digital times: in the age of social media, of neo-reactionary movements, of post-truth nihilism and of conspiracy theories developed by the alt-right." This year's edition was curated by Stefanie Hessler, curator of the TBA21-Academy in London; Kostis Stafylakis, an art theorist; and Poka-Yio, an artist and cofounder of the biennial.
